“Family Code Night” is a whole-family event at which kids grades K-8 and their parents pair up to do their first hour of computer programming – together! At this special evening of learning and fun, you’ll play in parent-child teams to complete fun Code.org puzzles and challenges at your own pace and learn core concepts in coding in this very first hour! Afterwards, you’ll go home with a special “Code On at Home” guide to continue coding puzzles, learning and fun at home. No coding experience needed. This is a great experience to share with your kids! Scholars, Parents and Teachers are all invited! Please register by April 12 so we can plan accordingly.

FREE FUN event introducing computer coding to you and your scholar!
